Solutions-Based.
Prepared to Serve.

I'm Jake Schoenbeck, a solutions-based conservative running for the House in District 2.
I'm the Vice President of Internal Audits at Plains Commerce Bank. Every day, I dive deep into complicated issues, working hard to find answers to difficult problems. You can count on me to do the exhaustive research needed to uncover solutions hidden in the data. It's what I've done for years, and what I'll do every day to serve District 2 and South Dakota.
Growing up, I was taught the value of public service by my dad, State Senator Lee Schoenbeck. Working alongside him my whole life has helped prepare me to serve. I know the players, the issues and the process. And I know what makes good government work in Pierre.
I'm Jake Schoenbeck, asking for your vote for House in the District 2 Republican Primary.

Ask the Motor Medics®
Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,
So what's a guy to do? I have a 2007 Pontiac Solstice GXP Turbo. Over the past year I have been adding power steering fluid. This started with filling the tank because it was at the low mark, then it was every time it would make noise which turned into a weekly event. Now, I can fill it in the morning, and it is empty by the time I get ten miles to work. I tried two different shops, and both said the parts were discontinued for it, a cooler, all hoses and a pump. I found only one hose online and they say they won't install them because they are cheap aftermarket hoses.

Chris in Watertown New York.

Dear Chris,
What a fun car to drive. Even more when it doesn't leak. We have an employee with one of those and they had the same issue. The shops are correct, they discontinued the parts you need. Just a couple of hoses are available after market, which is better than none. We had to remove the hoses and have a hydraulic shop crimp on new rubber. One steel line was rusted through and that had to come from a recycling yard car. The pump was also available used. All together it was pricey, but they did get their car going again. You may have to shop around a bit as a lot of shops don't work on those cars any longer.

Take care, the Motor Medics.

Dear Motor Medics,
Our son drives a 2013 Ram Truck diesel. He spends a lot of money on the truck. We bought it and he has saved his money working on it, things like a new turbo, intercooler, injectors and more. He's never said it ran bad, just that he "Needed" more stuff to make it better. It has a giant pipe in the bed for exhaust, who knows why? He recently got the truck impounded for "Rolling Coal" because it interfered with cars and caused pollution. He was also told that the truck would need to have its emissions put back on to be driven on the street again and he is asking for money to fix it. What is all this stuff and how does it affect driving it on the street?

Riley in Ft Collins Colorado.

Dear Riley,
Tuners, bigger Turbos, and removing emissions parts to get more power has been done for many years by many drivers of diesel trucks. While some of this, like removing exhaust emissions parts and egr deletes has not ever been legal according to federal laws, it still gets done by private individuals. Rolling Coal is when these trucks are set to dump so much wasted fuel into the exhaust that they smoke out the drivers behind the truck and most states hand out tickets for this. Recently many like yours have been cracking down on it and if a truck won't pass emission testing it can't be registered. .

Take care, the Motor Medics.
