Coming in tomorrow's

The Brandon Valley Lynx and the Harrisburg Tigers battled it out on the turf at the USD DakotaDome, and in the end, the Tigers proved to be 11AAA's best football team this season. The Journal was on the sidelines for every play and brings you a recap in a four-page spread.

The football team isn't the only program making headlines this week. The Lady Lynx volleyball team has their sights set on bringing home the hardware from the Class AA state tournament later this week in Rapid City. The Journal brings you reports on how the team got there and some insight into the tournament.

This week's Brandon Valley Journal also brings you details from the most recent Brandon City Council, Valley Springs City Commission and Brandon Valley Board of Education meetings.

A Brandon couple was scammed out of some substantial dollars by a contractor who tore their house apart and then left them hanging.

The I-90 bridge replacement project at exit 406 (Brandon) has been backed up once again. Learn more about why and the new timeline for the extensive project.

Nine Brandon Valley student-athletes inked their futures on National Letter of Intent Signing Day last week. Find out more about who has committed to continue their athletic careers at the collegiate level.

Plus, we've got a report from the BVHS business class and their marketing plans for Performance Press, the Brandon Tennis Association and Celebrate Community Church, and photos from Veterans Day programs at Robert Bennis Elementary and Brandon Elementary.

If you're a subscriber, thanks for reading! If you're not, what are you waiting for? Give us a call at 582-9999 so you can be in the know of everything that's "Coming in Tomorrow's Brandon Valley Journal!"

Ask the Motor Medics[®]
Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood[®] Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm a farmer who grows corn and I have now purchased a car that eats corn, well burns it anyway. I purchased a Ford Taurus with the flex-fuel option, but I don't know a thing about it. I've never owned a vehicle that was supposed to burn anything other than 10 percent ethanol. How does this work? Do I need to adjust something, or do I just put in whatever I feel like? Will my fuel mileage change? I have heard all sorts of stories and I just don't know what to believe. How about maintenance, do I need to do anything different if I use a high percentage of ethanol?

Terry in Kalamazoo Michigan

Dear Terry,

Feed that thing any amount of ethanol from zero to 85 percent and you don't need to adjust anything. The computer in the car automatically adjusts the fuel ration and timing to compensate for whatever you throw at it. As for mileage expect a change but take your time and play around a bit to see what gets you the best mileage for the dollars spent. Many of our listeners report they see better mileage with these cars when they use a 30 percent blend of ethanol as opposed to using 85 percent or nothing at all. As far as maintenance goes, don't fall short on the engine oil changes. The higher ethanol content makes it even more important to stick with scheduled oil changes.

Take care, The Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I listen to your car advice show every chance I get and on one of your recent shows I heard someone mention a check vehicle light. I listen at work so sometimes I miss a part when I get a customer. What is a check vehicle light? Is it different from a check engine light and if so, could you explain it for me?

Darla in Charleston West Virginia

Dear Darla,

We did have a caller with a check vehicle light that had come on and after checking for engine codes and finding none he called us. Not all vehicles have them but ones that do use the check vehicle light for body related codes generated by the body control module. Many systems use modules to operate them such as lighting systems, windows, and locks, etc. When one of these has a malfunction, it is usually separate from anything engine related, but they still want to alert you of the failure, so they have a separate light. A check vehicle light should be checked soon, a check engine light also means check soon. A flashing check engine light means check engine now! When a check engine light flashes it means the system has detected a misfire that can cause harm to the engine by dumping excess raw fuel into the combustion chamber. This fuel can wash out cylinders and cause damage to the pistons and rings and harm the catalytic convertor too.

Take care, The Motor Medics
